IV. Fidelity Brokerage Account, No. xxxxx9730, Property 1.

17. All Parties stipulate 100% of the total sums in the Fidelity Investment Brokerage Account, including all appreciation, shall be liquidated, treated as a substituted and forfeited asset, and apportioned to Ritchie. This liquidated, substituted, and forfeited subsumes the $75,082.76 in Property 1 this Court ordered to be forfeited. All Parties also stipulate that once the Fidelity Investment Brokerage Account is liquidated, Stephanie can close or maintain the account.

V. Distribution order of assets to be used to satisfy the $2,534,319.62 and the $30,000 criminal forfeiture money judgments.

18. All Parties stipulate to the specific distribution order in which the assets, funds, property, and real property are to be used to satisfy the criminal forfeiture money judgments of $30,000 (represents Galecki's separate criminal forfeiture money judgment in Case No. 2:20-cr-00164-APG-EJY, Case No. No. 4:15-cr-18 E.D. Va.) and $2,534,319.62 if the direct criminal appeals of Ritchie and Galecki in Case No. 2:15-cr-00285-APG-EJY and any requests for discretionary relief in those direct criminal appeals are resolved completely against them.<sup>1</sup> All parties also stipulate the government can also pursue any direct appeals and discretionary relief.

19. The agreed distribution order is as follows:

- First, $294,151.00, Property 2.
- Second, $177,844.68, Property 3.
- Third, $46,173.56, Property 4.
- Fourth, the additional $2,595.66 from Ritchie's Gulf Coast Community Bank personal checking account number xxxxxx5034 will be a substitute asset that will be liquidated and applied to the criminal forfeiture money judgment.
- Fifth, the $39,451.60 from Gulf Coast Community Bank account number xxxxxxxx4690 will be a substitute asset that will be liquidated and applied to the criminal forfeiture money judgment.
- Sixth, 100% of Property 1, the Fidelity Investment Brokerage Account, No. xxxxx9730, will be a substitute asset that will be liquidated and applied to the criminal forfeiture money judgment but only for the sum needed to satisfy both forfeiture money judgments.

<sup>1</sup> The parties agree that references to discretionary relief means direct appeals, including a petition for panel rehearing or suggestion en banc and a direct appeal to the United States Supreme Court but does not include requests for any collateral review, including, but not limited to, habeas corpus relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2255.

Seventh, Condominium, Property 6, if needed.

20. All Parties stipulate the resulting 100% liquidation sum of the Fidelity Brokerage Account, No. xxxxxx9730, Property 1, shall be held in reserve in the United States Treasury Suspense Account in the amount needed to satisfy the $2,534,319.62 criminal forfeiture money judgment and the $30,000 criminal forfeiture money judgment. To determine the sum of Property 1 to be held in the United States Treasury Suspense Account, the parties agree:

A. The criminal forfeiture money judgment shall be paid by

1. the following forfeited property:

- (a) $294,151.00, Property 2;
- (b) $177,844.68, Property 3;
- (c) $46,173.56, Property 4; and

2. the following substituted and forfeited property:

- (a) $2,595.66 from Ritchie's Gulf Coast Community Bank personal checking account number xxxxxx5034; and
- (b) $39,451.60 from Gulf Coast Community Bank account number xxxxxxxx4690.

B. The amount of liquidated Property 1 to be held in reserve shall include:

1. the estimated capital gains taxes for the liquidation of Property 1 as calculated by the average sum between the sums furnished in good faith by Ritchie's tax expert and Stephanie's tax expert will be held in reserve;

2. the storage fees and other accumulated costs stemming from the government's seizure of the Van, Property 5, but excluding the storage fees and other accumulated costs stemming from the government's seizure of Ritchie's Ford F-250;

3. Galecki's separate $30,000 criminal forfeiture money judgment in Case No. 2:20-cr-00164-APG-EJY-2 (Case No. 4:15-cr-18 E.D. Va.), (collective forfeiture amount); and

4. the criminal money judgment of $2,534,319.62.

The sum remaining after applying the assets identified in 20(A)(1)-(2) and adding the sums in 20(B)(1)-(4) reflect the portion of Liquidated Property 1 to be held in reserve with the United States Treasury Suspense Account for both criminal forfeiture money judgments and the taxes to pay on liquidation.

All sums remaining after the distributions of the liquidated Property 1 described in Paragraphs 20 are to be sent to Attorney Shawn R. Perez for deposit into Perez's IOLTA,

1 Account, wherein Perez will maintain that sum for distribution to Ritchie or his designee
2 for Ritchie's immediate use and as directed by Ritchie in writing. If the estimated capital
3 gains taxes for the liquidation of Property 1 as calculated by the average sum between the
4 sums furnished in good faith by Ritchie's tax expert and Stephanie's tax expert to be held
5 in reserve are not enough to pay the capital gains tax, Ritchie, and Ritchie alone, will be
6 responsible for any additional capital taxes for the liquidation of Property 1; Stephanie
7 will not be responsible for any additional capital gain taxes for the liquidation of Property
8 1.

9 21. All Parties stipulate the government shall pay all storage fees and reasonable
10 costs associated with the F-250's seizure necessary to release the Ford F-250 to Ritchie or 11 his designee within a reasonable time for the government after the Court enters its order of 12 this Stipulation on the docket.

13 22. All Parties stipulate Ritchie and Galecki shall pay all storage fees and 14 reasonable costs associated with the Van seizure and forfeiture as part of the collective 15 forfeiture amount.

16 23. All Parties stipulate the real property, Condominium, Property 6, will be
17 liquidated as forfeited only to the extent necessary to satisfy the collective forfeiture
18 amount if the 100% of the liquidated funds in Property 1 are insufficient to do so.

19 24. All Parties stipulate that if the 100% liquidation is not sufficient to pay the 20 collective forfeiture amount, Ritchie and Galecki will still be liable for the remaining
21 amount of the collective forfeiture amount, and the government will pursue other assets,
22 including those listed in paragraph 7(e) and (f).

23 25. All Parties stipulate to lift the stay and to allow the government to sell the 2011
24 Chevrolet 3500 Express Van, VIN 1GB3G3CG9B1113885, Property 5, and apply the net
25 sale proceeds to all storage fees and reasonable costs associated with the Van seizure and 26 forfeiture that the government incurred over the years. If the net sale proceeds will not be
27 sufficient to pay the costs, which will most likely occur, the collective forfeiture amount
28 will be used to pay the rest of the storage fees and reasonable costs as discussed above.

VI. Manner of liquidating and securing funds for government during Ritchie's and Galecki's direct appeal.

26. Ritchie and Galecki appealed their criminal convictions arising out of the District of Nevada in Case No. 2:15-cr-00285, from which the $2,534,319.62 criminal forfeiture money judgment arises. Their direct appeals are consolidated and pending a decision in the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. See United States v. Ritchie, 20-10296 (9th Cir.); United States v. Galecki, 20-10288 (9th Cir.). The Parties stipulate the criminal forfeiture money judgment, storage fees, and reasonable costs associated with the forfeitures cannot be distributed to the United States unless and until Ritchie's and Galecki's direct appeals and discretionary relief are final, except the Van, Property 5.

27. All Parties stipulate that if Ritchie's or Galecki's convictions in Case No. 2:15-cr-00285 are reversed, vacated, and remanded for a new trial in whole in their direct appeal or through discretionary relief, the forfeitures and the criminal forfeiture money judgment are rendered void because they are based on the criminal convictions under forfeiture law.

28. All Parties stipulate that if Ritchie's or Galecki's convictions in Case No. 2:15-cr-00285 are reversed, vacated, and remanded in part in their direct appeal or through discretionary relief, this Court will reconsider whether the forfeitures, the forfeiture judgment, and this Stipulation between the government, Ritchie, and Galecki remain supported by the remaining convictions, are partially supported, or are void based on the appellate decision with Ritchie's, Galecki's, and the government's briefings and the government's decision to litigate the criminal case further under forfeiture law.

29. All Parties stipulate that if Ritchie's and Galecki's convictions in Case No. 2:15-cr-00285 are affirmed in their direct appeals and discretionary relief, the forfeitures, the substitution and forfeiture, and the criminal forfeiture money judgment remain and may be executed as set forth herein under forfeiture law.

30. All Parties stipulate Galecki's $30,000 separate forfeiture judgment in Case No. 2:20-cr-00164-APG-EJY-2 (Case No. 4:15-cr-18 E.D. Va.) is not affected by the direct

1 appeals in this case and may be executed as set forth herein, allowing the government to
2 transfer the $30,000 from the collective forfeiture amount in the United States Treasury
3 Suspense Account to United States Treasury Forfeiture Fund.

4 31. All Parties stipulate all capital gains tax owed by Ritchie and Stephanie because
5 of the liquidation of 100% of Property 1 are also not affected by the direct appeals and
6 discretionary relief in Case No. 2:15-cr-00285 and will be paid out of the of the collective 7 forfeiture amount as set forth herein.

8 32. After the Court enters the order adopting this stipulation, all Parties stipulate
9 the government shall advise Fidelity to liquidate 100% of Property 1, the Fidelity
10 Investment Brokerage Account, No. xxxxx9730, when Attorney Shawn R. Perez directs
11 as informed by Ritchie to do so in writing.

12 33. Ritchie and Stephanie, within the 45 days of signing this Stipulation, will have 13 their respective tax professionals provide the average sum between the sums furnished in 14 good faith estimates of the capital gains by Ritchie's tax expert and Stephanie's tax expert
15 that will be owed for the liquidation of Fidelity Investment Brokerage Account, No.
